Client Testimonial - "A unique factor Joe possesses that will continue to drive his current and future successes is the intersection of academia and real-life application Joe possesses through both his military background and formal education. This allows him to be able to relate to folks of all backgrounds and facilitate open and honest discussion with strong engagement from all parties involved."

Everyone has a foundation – for me, that was service in the United States Marine Corps.

The experience and values that I've gained while serving our country didn't vanish when I left active duty. Instead, those qualities gained from uniformed service translate into an unparalleled benefit to your organization.

From leading Marines all over the world, to include Operation Enduring Freedom in Afghanistan, supporting the United States Diplomatic Mission across the globe, and participating in countless operations during my service – I bring all of that invaluable experience with me – to your organization.
